

Mini Easy Craw

Smallmouth bass love Cray fish but so do walleyes, carp, drum and brown trout
Any crawfish I tie have either no claws or small 'non defensive posture' claw but I do favour a 'junk in the front' tie I also think that smaller crayfish are a more likely food source as they are easier and more plentiful.

Hook in vise with optional bead for weight

2.
tie in 2 ostrich herls for antenna

3.
hackle fibers for tendrils

4.
Some under body feathers for small relaxed 'claws' or just more junk in the front

5.
Some material for a back/carpacse. In this case I am using olive midge flex but I have used plastic Raffia or buck tail

6.
Dark bead chain or mono eyes and a single ostrich herl

7.
Dub body in and around eyes and 1/3 of the way along the hook shank

8.
Palmer the herl forward and tie in some copper wire for ribbing

9.
Dub in the balance of the body

10.
Pull back material over body, tie in and cut off leaving a tag representing the tail

11.
Bring rib back, tie off and whip finish

12.
Pick out the dubbing for legs

Fish it over rock piles, and current seams and HANG ON!
